Re : Queensland Organics
Organic Xtra Fertilizer pellet

I have been using Organic Xtra fertilizer since 2001 when I first starting teaching organic gardening to students in my edible school gardens program and also in my own home garden and at all the workshops I present.

What I like about the product is first that its local (Qld company) and a small family business therefore the money stays in the community. If I have any questions about the product they are more than happy to meet with me and discuss them – great customer service. The product is organic and having soil that is biologically alive with organic product is vital for healthy food and something I am very passionate about, we must bring our soils alive and support them.

Organic Xtra as a product is a good balance of NPK, Ca and minerals and easy to apply to your vegetable gardens and pots – even primary students can do this job, even when students have been a little over zealous with their job, the plants haven't burnt from the extra fertilizer!

Our gardens thrive and I think 10+ years trailing Organic Xtra is a fair indication that it works.
